

Parents are important to us

Parent and grandparent involvement is a vital and wonderful part of our program! We enjoy having parents & other family members visit on their child's snack days, volunteer in the classroom and help at home and on site with various projects. We comply with the DHS requirements to keep our children safe at all times.

The children share songs and drama at several daytime programs for their families. There are also a few evenings of fun and fellowship with the children and their parents/families throughout the year.

The director emails a Monthly Calendar and Parent Newsletter. These give the families fun and important information about what is happening each day along with questions related to the theme related literature. Additional emails are sent out with reminders and updates.

To keep parents current on their child's development, we send home a complete Individual Readiness Report in late fall and have Parent Teacher Conferences in the spring with an updated Readiness Report. The director conducts the IGDI-pre Dibbles Literacy assessment to all of the children three times a year.
